We all know someone who knows someone who has access to these items. Consider 6 degrees of separation: you know someone, who knows someone, who knows someone else, who someone else who knows somebody who has access to these items. If this is a little complicated, then at a minimum consider 3 degrees of separation.

In addition, think of items that you would like to purchase at this event. What would you buy for yourself or your family? For example: if you had $100, $250, $500, $1,000 or even $5,000 to spend, what would you consider worth buying?
